THE DOGIE CALF'S SOLILOQUY

a stunted, long-haired dogie calf at must rustle like Hell to live, the fellow that burned me on the side help whatever will give.

mother's a long-horned, rangedred cow ny, and lean and sad. e browse is scant, the range is poor t little rain have we had.

se day a paper was blowing about ere was white-faced calves on a pic- ture page. asked my mother what made them so big or it said they was just my age.

se tried to tell me what she had heard bout piles and piles of hay, Alfalfa", she said, she thought it was called But none had e'er come her way."

was Heaven, I'm sure, about which she spoke nd I wish I might go there today shelter I'd find, fresh water to drink, nd hay, and hay, and hay!

Might Have Been Harder

"I wuz in de movies, once," said the attered visitor. "Not an actor?" "You could hardly call me dat, mum. But in de big scene I wuz thrown out of a barroom by de star."

"You should have been well paid for that."
